

Bobby's Mother Testifies

By Larry Hall

Kansas City (AP) — Mrs. Robert C. Greenleaf faced the kidnap killers of her only son in federal court yesterday and told how the slayer lied to her about little Bobby's safety.

It was the bereaved mother's first public statement since her 6-year-old child was stolen from his school and brutally killed the same day in a shocking $600,000 ransom plot.

Her dramatic appearance on the stand was the second sensation of the day as the government neared the end of its effort to send Carl Austin Hall, 34, and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, 41, to death in the gas chamber.

Hall's confession, read in stark detail by an FBI agent earlier revealed for the first time the kidnaper's claim that he had $592,000 of the ransom money in his possession when he was arrested in St. Louis. Half of the money still is missing.

It raised new questions about what happened to the money. The St. Louis Police Board immediately announced plans to reopen its investigation of the mystery.

Hall's confession said his two suitcases with the money were not taken to the police station with him when he was arrested by former Lt. Louis Shoulters and Patrolman Elmer Dolan.

Dolan denied this from the stand. He said he helped Shoulters put the bags in the police car and take them to the station.

Shoulters, who resigned in the midst of the investigation, has not been called as a witness. He said in St. Louis he had nothing to say about Hall's statement.

By today the case is expected to reach the jury of Western Missouri farmers and businessmen who will decide the fate of the killers. The pair's guilt already has been admitted. All the jury can do is recommend the death penalty or some lighter sentence.

U. S. Dist. Atty. Edward L. Scheufler said he expected to finish his case within an hour after court convenes today. After that the court appointed defense lawyer, Roy L. Dietrich, said he would have perhaps half a dozen witnesses.

Mrs. Greenleaf was escorted to the stand from the chambers of Judge Albert L. Reeves.

She spoke in a low, hardly audible tones, about the tragic day when a nun from the French institute of Notre Dame de Sion called to tell her Bobby had been taken away by a strange woman—Mrs. Heady.

Then, prompted by Scheufler, she told how she talked with the killer, Hall, four times on the telephone. He was trying to arrange the ransom pickup and identified himself each time only as "M," his code name.

She said "M" assured her again and again her boy was safe and would be returned within 24 hours after the kidnapers got the ransom money.

She said "M" told her: "Lady, he is alive. He is driving us nuts. We have earned this money."

Mrs. Greenleaf, who was confined to her home through the agonizing days of the ransom negotiations, told how she tried to get a chance to talk with Bobby on the phone. He was already dead, but the family's hopes were still alive at that time.

Hall's confession a few hours earlier had given the jury a gruesome picture of the slaying in a stubble field near Kansas City.

Reds Reverse Proposal For Peace Talks

By Sam Summerlin

Pannunjam, Wednesday, (AP) — The Communists today indicated they had dropped their demands for a Korean round-table peace conference but still would insist on non-belligerents including Russia—sitting in to insure a "harmonious atmosphere."

The Reds put forth their position on the composition of the conference during a meeting of Allied and Communist diplomats seeking to lay the groundwork for the long delayed conference.

Meanwhile, the Indian command announced that for the third straight day there would be no interviews tomorrow to anti-Communist war prisoners by Red agents seeking to induce the POWs to return home.

In the diplomatic sessions, North Korean delegate Ki Sok Bok reiterated his proposal that the peace conference be conducted "between the two sides on an equal footing." This was a sharp reversal from previous Red demands that belligerents and neutrals sit in on an equal footing.

Ki insisted that Russia, India, Burma, Pakistan and Indonesia take part in the talks, but failed to make clear just what role they would play.

He said the Allied opposition to neutrals would "make it impossible for the political peace conference to accomplish smoothly its task in a harmonious atmosphere."

Communist correspondent Wilfred Burchett, who often echoes official Red policy, said the Red plan in effect was a complete abandonment of their demand for a round-table conference.

Trucker Tax Held Valid

Philadelphia (AP) — Interstate truckers operating in Pennsylvania must pay a share of the 8-mills gross receipts tax as their contribution to the cost of building and maintaining roads, the State Supreme Court ruled yesterday.

Rejecting claims by three trucking firms that the tax is unconstitutional, the state's highest court held that "There can be no doubt that the purpose of the tax is compensation for the use of the highways."

The high court's action was not unanimous. Justice T. McKen Chidsey wrote the majority opinion and Justice John C. Bell filed an emphatic dissent calling the tax unconstitutional and contending that the state cannot tax interstate commerce "directly or by subterfuge."

But the court majority said the tax is "an excise on the use of the public highways" and the statute "provides a reasonably accurate and non-discriminatory formula to reflect the use of highways within this commonwealth."

Suspect Held In Kidnap-Rape Of N.Y. Girl

Tampa, Fla. (AP) — Anthony James Palazzola, 26, wanted in New York in the kidnap-rape of a 13-year-old girl last week, surrendered at police headquarters here yesterday.

Palazzola said he had read in a newspaper he was being sought and wanted to know "what it is all about."

Tampa police told New York officials later that Palazzola admitted breaking into the girl's home, taking money and other items from her parents and forcing her to accompany him in an automobile.

But, police said, he denied raping the girl.

Stalin's Body Put On Display

Moscow, (AP) — The embalmed body of Joseph Stalin went on display yesterday. The red marble Lenin-Stalin tomb was opened to the public for the first time since Stalin's funeral March 9.

Thousands of persons, holding passes for the initial three-hour showing, marched across snowy Red Square to the mausoleum of the two premiers. The Square was closed to all except the pass-holders.

15 Men Killed As Crippled Flying Boxcar Rips Through Cloud Of Parachuting Troops

Fl. Bragg, N. C. (AP)—Fifteen men were killed yesterday during a paratrooper training operation when a crippled C119 flying boxcar crashed in woods on this Army reservation.

The huge plane, one of 32 dropping a total of about 1,000 82nd Airborne Division troops, cut a deadly swath through a cloud of men dangling helplessly from parachutes.

The 18th Airborne Corps public information officer said 10 paratroopers were killed in the air. Four crewmen and a paratrooper rode the plane down to a fiery death.

The plane seemed to develop engine trouble while dropping about 40 paratroops during a high-level conference on joint airborne operations. Dead and injured men were scattered over a wide area.

Apparently all the paratroops hit were from other transports in the formation of 12.

Maj. M. R. Fowler, public information officer of the 18th Airborne Corps, said the pilot, flying at about 1,200 feet, veered sharply to the left in an apparent attempt to avoid hitting more paratroops. This, he said, probably hastened the crash into woods at the end of drop zone Holland. The zone, named after the World War II jump, is used for paratrooper training and is between Ft. Bragg and the resort city of Southern Pines.

The plane was attached to the 746th Squadron of the 456th Troop Carrier Wing at the Charleston, S. C., Air Force Base.

It cut a 300-yard path through scrub pines and dug a crater about five feet deep. Wreckage was scattered over a 500-yard area as the plane exploded and burned.

One man, dangling from his parachute, was almost decapitated when a wing struck him.

A chaplain attached to the 82nd said his "stick" of about 20 men jumped safely from one of the plane's two doors before the crash.

Truman Silent On New Statement By Brownell

Kansas City, (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman firmly refused last night to say anything more about the Harry Dexter White case. "Why waste words?" was his reply to a request for comment on Atty. Gen. Brownell's statement to the Senate internal security subcommittee on the case of the suspected spy.

"I heard it. No comment," he said of Brownell's broadcast testimony.

Later, the former President said he had not heard what FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, who followed Brownell before the subcommittee, had to say but added "I'm sure he told the truth."

Truman appeared satisfied to rest on his speech to the nation by radio and television Monday night.

His desk was piled with a mounting stack of telegrams inspired by his speech.

Below normal temperatures are indicated west of the Continental Divide and in West Texas. In areas not specified near normal is predicted, the bureau said.

It said precipitation amounts in excess of normal are indicated for most of the nation, except in the South Atlantic and Northern Plateau states where subnormal amounts are in prospect.

Defend Precautions

New York (AP)—General Electric Co., one of the nation's key defense firms, said yesterday its security precautions match government standards—and often exceed them. This was in reply to Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) concerning testimony before his spy-probing subcommittee.

Bear Shot From Tree In Orchard

Monroe County hunters tried hard yesterday but none measured up to the first day record kill for bears set on opening day of the season.

Ralph Carlton, a Roemerville farmer, shot a 115-pound (hog-dressed) bear out of an apple tree in his orchard.

Carlton's dog treed the bear then attracted his master's attention by barking.

Carroll Krautter, Panther, bagged a 150-pounder near Carlton's farm Monday at 4 p. m.

Yesterday morning Oscar Schenagel, Greentown, nailed a 300-pound animal at Crosby swamp near his home.

The bear was 50 pounds short of Monday's record 350-pounder brought down by Tobyhanna's Roy Franks near Warnertown.

There were reports of four more bears killed in the Promised Land area during the first two days of the season.

A 300-pound bear was bagged near Jonas yesterday by J. L. Briesbach of Weissport.

MEMORY OF A MAN—These three women met a. Monroe General Hospital yesterday afternoon to take part in a simple ceremony honoring a man with a basic philosophy. Mrs. Frederick Trumbour, captain of the Monroe County unit of the American Cancer Society, left, accepted a $50 fund from two Cresco women—Mrs. Ann Mason, center, and Mrs. Johnnie Taylor. ## Friends Of Late Thomas Alston Contribute Memorial Gift To County Cancer Society

By Leonard Randolph

Some men are capable of influencing those around them during their own lifetime. Still others make an impression which lasts long after their death.

Thomas Alston was apparently a member of the latter group. He died on April 1 after 70 years among men but the spirit which guided him was very much in evidence yesterday at General Hospital.

In the small reception room just off the hospital entrance two Cresco women waited with patient purpose for an appointment with Mrs. Frederick Trumbour, captain of the Monroe County Chapter of the American Cancer Society.

The women were Mrs. Johnnie B. M. Taylor and Mrs. Ann Mason. It was 4:30, according to the wall clock over the switchboard in the hall.

Mrs. Taylor had come to the hospital on a dedicated assignment. In memory of Tom Alston, she was turning over a cash gift of $50 to the local Cancer Society office.

The Cresco woman remembers "Uncle Tom" as a very popular man—one of the oldest employees at the Inn at Buck Hill Falls.

As she, and other friends, recall him, Tom Alston had built his life around service to the happiness and welfare of other persons.

Among the persons who had known "Uncle Tom" for many years was Miss Iris Higgins, Swiftwater resident who operates a Canadian shop. Miss Higgins is also compiler of the "Little Thoughts" which appear frequently on The Daily Record editorial page.

According to Miss Higgins, "Uncle Tom" was the inspiration —and in some cases, the author—of some of the thoughts contained in the column.

Children throughout the Buck Hill area called Mr. Alston "Uncle Tom". Miss Higgins recalls, as did many adults who had known him for years.

"Uncle Tom was quite a philosopher," Miss Higgins declares. "He was constantly giving more than he was asked to give, if he thought the cause was a good one. He helped dozens of young people who came to the Inn."

Tom Alston had a "gift of making people feel better, too" no matter whether they had known him 50 years or two hours, the writer says.

It was only natural that a man of Tom Alston's nature should gain lasting friends. It was natural, too, that he should exercise an influence over most per-

White House Warned Seven Times By FBI

By Roger D. Greene

Washington (AP) — Atty. Gen. Brownell yesterday broke an eight-year seal of secrecy on FBI reports, sent to the White House during the Truman administration, which told of the wholesale theft of U. S. secrets by an alleged Soviet spy ring within the government.

Testifying with Brownell at a tense congressional hearing, FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover disclosed that the FBI delivered seven separate warnings to the White House—not two as reported earlier—dealing with espionage and specifically mentioning Harry Dexter White.

This was in the period from Nov. 8, 1945, to July 24, 1946.

Brownell indicated in his testimony that in addition to the FBI alarm signals flashed to the White House, high Canadian government officials expressed concern about White's background in the light of his appointment to a high post in the International Monetary Fund.

The attorney general partially lifted the lid from reports to document his politically explosive charge that former President Truman promoted White in the face of repeated FBI warnings that White was linked to a Soviet espionage apparatus.

Truman said Monday night he shifted White from the Treasury Department to the "less sensitive" monetary fund in 1946 to keep him under close surveillance and to avoid tipping off other suspected Reds.

Brownell and Hoover gave their answer to the ex-President's version at a crowded hearing before the Senate internal security subcommittee.

Brownell said Hoover warned the White House in November, 1945, that a network of Communist spies was transmitting U. S. government secrets to Moscow and named names, including White and at least 11 others, as the sources, whether willingly or not, of the stolen data.

Truman appointed White, then a $9,000-a-year assistant secretary of the Treasury, to the $17,000-a-year tax free post as American executive director of the International Monetary Fund on Jan. 23, 1946.

The Senate confirmed the nomination on Feb. 6, 1946.

The magnitude of the spy ring's operations at least in the bulk of documents transmitted to Moscow was brought out in a "top secret" letter, declassified by Brownell only Monday, written by Hoover to Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan (Ret.), then Truman's White House military aide, on Nov. 8, 1948.

Vaughan testified last week he had no recollection of ever receiving such an FBI report, but said he wouldn't challenge Brownell's statement that it had been sent to him for delivery to Truman.

In the letter, Hoover said "government documents were furnished to Gregory Silvermaster, who thereafter photographed them and turned over the undeveloped but exposed film to a contact of the Soviets in either Washington, D. C., or New York City."

Hoover said it was reported that "the contact man made trips to Washington, D. C., once every two weeks and would pick up on such occasions an average of 40 rolls of 35-millimeter film."

Such film is frequently used to condense the pages of bulky documents into such tiny print that they can be read only through a magnifying glass or by being "blown up" on a screen.

It was this Nov. 8, 1945 letter that was the FBI's first warning to the White House that Communist spies were at work inside the government ferreting out secrets to transmit to Moscow.

Hoover, Hoover told the Senate subcommittee:

"From Nov. 8, 1945, until July 24, 1946, seven communications went to the White House bearing on espionage activities, wherein Harry Dexter White's name was specifically mentioned."

Hoover said a 28-page FBI summary on White, delivered to the White House on Feb. 4, 1946, contained information from a total of 30 sources "the reliability of which had previously been established."

Hoover Says FBI Never Was Party To Keeping White

By Douglas B. Cornell

Washington (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover swore yesterday that former President Truman's promotion of Harry Dexter White to the International Monetary Fund "hampered" FBI surveillance of the alleged Soviet spy.

This testimony, which exploded a new sensation in the drama-crammed case, came less than 24 hours after Truman told a nationwide TV audience that he let the promotion go through so as not to "endanger" the FBI investigation. His argument was that to fire White would have tipped the alleged spy ring that it was under surveillance.

Hoover, on the other hand, declared that he warned high administration officials that White was "unfit" for office and that it would be "unwise" to keep him.

At no time, Hoover stressed, was the FBI a party to any agreement to shift White from assistant secretary of the treasury to U. S. director on the monetary fund, although on Truman's orders the FBI did continue to watch White after the transfer.

Atty. Gen. Brownell, whom Truman accused Monday night of lying, opened up yesterday with a counter-charge that the Truman regime failed to take even "minimum precautions" in the White case. He declared there is "considerable doubt that anything was done to protect the national interest" against White and others named in FBI reports as members of an espionage ring.

The cabinet officer and FBI director testified at a nationally-televised hearing of the Senate internal security subcommittee as it looked into:

Brownell's Nov. 6 charge that Truman promoted White in 1946 in the face of the FBI reports about him.

Truman's blasting reply Monday night that Brownell "lied" to the American people about him and "degraded" the nation's highest level office with "political skulduggery."

Hundreds of spectators looked on as Brownell and Hoover told their side of the story under oath. Valleys of applause greeted some of their salient statements. Radio, television and newsreel and still cameras recorded it all.

Brownell produced a hitherto top secret letter Hoover wrote to Truman's military aide, Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan on Nov. 8, 1945, about operations of a "Soviet espionage system." White was second on the list of 14 persons described as "participants in this operation" or "utilized by principals in this ring" for the "purpose of obtaining data in which the Soviet is interested."

Vaughan, Hoover testified, was the person to whom Truman had asked that FBI reports be sent. He said this was in keeping with practices in the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Herbert Hoover.

Another previously secret Hoover letter to Vaughan on Feb. 1, 1946 disclosed that some of the information about White came from undisclosed Canadian sources concerned about White's shift to the monetary fund.

Brownell emphasized anew that he wasn't impugning Truman's loyalty, but he did not retreat an inch from his original statement that started the whole controversy.

He said that White "was known to be a Communist spy by the very people who appointed him to the most sensitive and important position he ever held in government service."

Questioned sharply by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), Brownell said he could not see how "any reasonable person, with legal training, could reach a different" conclusion. He agreed with McClellan that in essence he was saying that White was "known by Harry Truman to be a Communist spy."

Was Brownell, then, accusing Truman of stupidity, McClellan demanded.

"I used the term 'blindness' the attorney general came back. 'Mr. Truman is not a stupid man.'"

McClellan said there wasn't much difference between blindness and stupidity.

"I prefer my own words," Brownell said with a smile, "but you're getting pretty close to it."

Laughter and applause swept through the huge marble Senate caucus room where the hearing was held.

Brownell has said Hoover sent the White House two reports on Soviet espionage, one a general document dealing with White and others in December, 1945, and a second relating to White alone the following Feb. 4.

White's appointment to the 25-entry fund was approved by the Senate Feb. 6, 1946. Truman said Monday night he allowed the appointment to go through after conferences with Supreme Court case. He declared there is "considerable doubt that anything was done to protect the national interest" against White and others named in FBI reports as members of an espionage ring.

Th Senate subcommittee took note of published reports that White's move to the monetary fund was under an arrangement with the FBI so that White could be kept under better surveillance without tipping any persons involved in espionage.

It was largely to clear up this point, Chairman Jenner (R-Ind.), said that the subcommittee felt it necessary to call Hoover to the witness stand. And on that point, Hoover said:

"I did not enter into any agreement to shift White from the Treasury Department to the International Monetary Fund. This was not within my purview."

The FBI, he said, never objected to getting rid of government officials on whom it had evidence of subversive activities.

In fact, he said, he told Atty. Gen. Clark on Feb. 21, 1946, a fortnight after the Senate approved the White appointment, it would be "unwise" to let White remain in government. He said Clark told him "an effort would be made to remove Harry Dexter White, although the attorney general expressed doubt that this would work out."

He said Clark advised him White would be surrounded at the monetary fund with especially selected people who were not security risks and that Truman wanted surveillance continued. Hoover said he told Clark surveillance would be kept up if that was the desire.

But it was harder for FBI agents to keep track of White after the suspected Treasury official went to the monetary fund, Hoover said. This, he explained, was because the premises of the fund had "extra-territorial status" not subject to U. S. government control and agents had no right to follow White there.

"We certainly were hampered insofar as surveillance was concerned," the FBI chief declared.

Hoover quoted Clark as saying he felt Truman personally should tell White it would be best for him not to serve on the fund.

The problem, he said, was how to prevent White from taking the oath of the new office.

"Judge Vinson," he said, "did not want Mr. White to serve as a U. S. delegate on the International Monetary Fund and, in fact, did not want him to continue as assistant secretary of the Treasury."

However, Truman went ahead and signed White's commission to the monetary fund, 20 days after the appointment had been confirmed by the Senate.

If there was any agreement to place non-security risks around White, Hoover said, it must have broken down quickly. He went on to say that Virginia Frank Coe, a close associate of White also accused of links with a Soviet spy ring, became secretary of the fund in June, 1946.

Coe, Hoover said, was dismissed last December after refusing on grounds of possible self incrimination to answer questions of the Jenner subcommittee about relations with White.

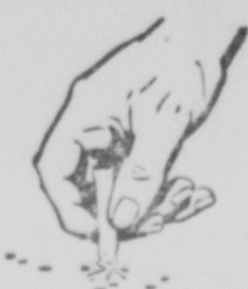

Coe also refused to tell the subcommittee whether he was engaged in subversive activities at the time he was questioned.

Here's how Smokey helps reduce forest fires 25 per cent.

Smokey The Bear Helping To Cut Forest Fire Hazard

By Grover Brinkman
Central Press Correspondent

Los Angeles — A few years ago, a group of top advertising men in Los Angeles faced a tough assignment. They were asked to sell not beer or cigarettes or green cheese—but an idea. The idea was forest fire prevention.

Yearly statistics showed that 20 million acres of United States timber was going up in smoke. Could advertising sell people the idea of being more careful in the woods? The ad men accepted the challenge, and went to work. For months they tried out different types of appeal. Pictures of forests, gaunt and bare, following fires; sometimes a frightened squirrel or rabbit appeared in their midst. Even Bambi, the famous deer, gazed forlornly out of the ads.

Then one day, quite by accident, it was a bear. Unlike the other animals, he was big and strong. He could stand on his hind legs and look very human. He was forceful in blue jeans and a ranger's hat, with a shovel in his paw. The ad men christened him Smokey, after a famous New York fire chief. And they made him the symbol and spokesman of forest fire prevention.

Today Smokey speaks to millions of Americans every day through newspapers, magazines, bus and subway car cards, outdoor posters, radio and television, billboards, movie screens and comic books. It's the job of this four-footed friend to point out that nine out of 10 fires in our forests occur through human carelessness.

Smokey, following the rules of the state and federal forestry services, tells us we can save our woodlands by crushing out cigarettes, breaking matches in two, dousing the dying embers of our campfire.

Has Smokey done any good? To give you an example, forest fires have declined 25 per cent since he made his debut. In fact, Congress considers him so valuable that last year it unanimously passed an act making him the official symbol of forest fire prevention and the property of the American people.

In addition to appearing in advertising, Smokey's likeness and messages are now being used by official license in toys, games, books, records, novelties and clothing. He's even had a song written by him.

The last part about Smokey is, he renders his fire prevention services at no cost whatever to the public.

The next time you're in Washington, D. C., take a trip to the National zoo and see the real live Smokey. He was found as a cub five years ago, the sole survivor of a forest fire in New Mexico. Today he's a big black bear and one of the most visited zoo animals in the country.

While Smokey was being created by the west coast advertising men, three thousand miles away, in New York, a similar group was wrestling with a similar selling problem—home fire prevention. An advertising program was badly needed to help cut down the more than 300,000 fires that annually take a toll of nearly 12,000 lives and a billion dollars in property in the United States.

Like the West Coast men, this group, too, tried a variety of approaches—and came up with a two-week-old Dalmatian puppy named Sparky. Soon he appeared in advertising across the nation, wearing a fire chief's hat and coat, and squirting a hose. To prevent home fires, Sparky says, don't smoke in bed, don't overload wiring systems, keep matches away from children, don't use flammable cleaning fluids, clean junk out of cellars and attics.

Just why do Smokey and Sparky have such universal appeal? Advertising men don't exactly know—but the appeal is there, from tiny tots to oldsters.

Denz Speaks On Work Of Job Service

Carl Denz, administrative assistant to Dr. Frank Maguire at the East Stroudsburg office of the State Employment Service, spoke at the Stroudsburg Lions Club meeting in the Penn Stroud Hotel last night. Floyd Butz was program chairman.

The speaker explained the value of the employment service in the community as a placement service where employers may receive aid in finding desirable men and women to fill employment vacancies and where persons looking for employment may be assisted in finding places suited to their experience and capabilities.

He told of guidance service given to persons needing the same, as in cases of elderly people, persons incapacitated from one reason or another, or young people just out of school.

He pointed out that, naturally, in a modern and complex industry all demands cannot be handled on a local level and his office is situated so that it can obtain aid from other communities in case of labor shortages as in the case of the resort needs in the Poconos in the Summer season.

He spoke also of aptitude tests which are worked out in this area in cooperation with the high schools of the twin boroughs.

Sam Everitt reported on the plans for participation in Biddy Basketball this year.

President William Hinton appointed members to the Christmas party and toy distribution committee.

The annual attendance contest, with only one week remaining, finds the team headed by Al Denz in the lead by one point.

Who Put Him There?

Guilt by association is a dangerous accusation and one extremely difficult to prove, yet the Truman administration displayed a startling knack for the business of making friends as men high and low in the national capitol dealt with some of the costliest characters, to use an inoffensive term, every to arrive on the political scene.

There have been many instances of this, but none more startling than the amazing Harry Dexter White case. No one, it has been repeated these past several days, would accuse President Truman of anything approaching malfeasance or of any traitorous action, but it continues to be evident that the man from Missouri left much to be desired in his selection of associates and that they were not as high-mindedly idealistic in their approach to affairs of state as the President himself essayed to be.

Mr. Truman's explanation of the White case, namely, that the Treasury official was kept in government—promoted in fact—so that the FBI could run down the whole subversive picture and prosecute where evidence warranted, is being accepted or rejected strictly along political lines.

As this controversy rages back and forth between leaders of the two political parties, we feel the American people are being cheated out of the most basic of explanations.

Who, and by what dexterity, put Harry Dexter White in such a vital role in the Government of the United States and kept him and many others like him there so long?

Pennies To Pensions

Social Security taxes go up from 1½ to 2 per cent Jan. 1, but that's one tax increase that most informed persons will be glad to pay.

Where else could anyone build up a substantial pension for old age, plus pensions for his dependents if the worker doesn't survive, for payments that amount to little more than pennies a week?

So Little -- So Much

Only 14.6 per cent of the Monroe County Community Chest goal is lacking. It can and must be cleaned up so that agencies will function to preserve the high level of health, welfare and youth service.

Study of Division standings at the moment shows that they have collected anywhere from 53.9 per cent in the county-door-to-door to 93.4 per cent for the Trades. The Stroudsburgs for instance have 63.4 per cent of quota.

Actual cash shortage of $9,488.26. The 85.4 per cent of quota subscribed represents $55,611.74.

Let's have that final effort in every division. So little is needed—but it means so much.

There are approximately 160 million acres of land in the continental United States under jurisdiction of the United States Forest service.

Great Britain uses about 11 times as much tea per capita as does the United States.

England has more than 60,000 lakes.

Bermuda Huddle

Bermuda is all set for the Big Three Conference and the boys have certainly picked a nice climate for it. There are few places on earth where it is harder to be belligerent, impatient or even mildly irritable. And it is a spot where it is hard to picture a Russian leader finding any comfort whatever. Table-thumping is foreign to the Bermuda Isle. It is not prohibited. If a visitor wishes to thump a table (which is most unlikely) he may do so, but no real Class A Table Thumper would choose it. Thump any piece of furniture, blow your stack or otherwise perform noisily there and you feel absurd.

Wild gestures are regarded as out of bounds in Bermuda, too. Hurling the 50-pound vituperation makes you feel awful. We think that if Mr. Vishinsky or Mr. Malik were given the signal for full speed ahead with their loudest exhortations, accusations, demands and vetoes in Bermuda, they would feel silly before they went into their act. Gromyko against a background of lilies and twittering birds would seem incongruous. The Russians would feel miserable doing their stuff in a mood of moonlight and roses, lovers in the parks, soft music, tinkling laughter and in the presence of people living happily and suspecting nobody. Which is probably why Moscow has never shown any interest in attending a Bermuda huddle.

President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and Prime Minister Laniel can be tough babies. They are batters. But you associate them with poise, balance, restraint and kindness. It is not hard to think of them lolling on a bench, taking a swim or watching honeymooners waltzing in a patio. But it is difficult to picture Vishinsky in shorts rubbing oil on his arms; the image of Malik relaxing on a tropical beach unguarded and at peace with the world comes hard. A hot sun, we fear, would be blamed on capitalistic warmongers. We hope the pictures of Eisenhower, Churchill and Laniel in Bermuda get a big play all over the world and that some of them reach Russia. We would even like to see the Big Three send a cable to Malenkov: "Having wonderful time; wish you were here. Don't forget to put out the cat, like,

Public To Get First Look At Two U. S. Atomic Bombs

Washington — You will soon have the chance to take a look at the most frightful and secretly cloaked destroyer in the world—the A-bomb.

In fact, two of them. Both will be of the Hiroshima type; what the military call the "Mark III." These bombs have the destructive equivalent of 60,000-80,000 tons of TNT, and are now classed among the smaller atomic weapons. The U. S. can produce them in large numbers.

In the forthcoming public demonstration they will be referred to as "Mr. Thin Man" and "Mr. Fat Man." It can be reported the former is 18 feet in height and 11 feet in circumference. The measurements of "Mr. Fat Man" must be revealed as yet, as the information is still in process of declassification.

President Eisenhower, himself, will conduct the historic unveiling.

It will be part of a broadcast he will make from the White House on "The New Atomic Era." During the course of the President's televised address he will pull back a curtain and display the two mass killers. No close-ups are planned, but viewers will be able to get a clear idea of what this cataclysmic weapon looks like in an over-all way.

The President's talk will deal with the fearful dangers facing the country from atomic attack and the general measures being taken to avert them. He will state that an elaborate system of continental defenses is being created on a "crash basis," that the new military budget now in preparation "will include all the money that can be soundly spent on an effective warning network."

The President also will stress that the U. S. is well in the lead in the production of atomic weapons, both in quantity and variety, and that every effort is being made to maintain this crucial superiority.

Note: Important news regarding guided missiles will soon be officially announced. The Defense Department will report the Air Force has guided missile units in operation. Also that these units have destroyed high-speed jet drones as large as bombers capable of carrying atomic weapons.

The Air Force was all set to announce this vital milestone in aerial defense in a speech by Lieutenant General Earle Partridge to the American Legion. But he was sidetracked by Defense Secretary Wilson, with the explanation his office would do the talking.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

We Cannot Desert God For Peace, But That Is What We Are Now Asked To Do

San Francisco—A new phrase has come into existence, namely, "Scientific Atheism."

The dissemination of scientific knowledge must play an important role in the working people's Communist education, in cleansing from people's minds capitalistic survivals, the prejudices and harmful traditions of the old society. . . . Religious survivals still remain in the minds of many of our people, especially in the rural areas, and without comprehensive, scientific rebuttal of religious tales, myths and fabrications, without explaining religion's true historical and economic roots, it will be impossible to ensure the people's cultural growth.

In the current relaxation from excitement over the ideological struggle in the world, the tendency is to become more tolerant of fundamental differences. In our true quest for peace, we turn from disturbing antagonisms in the hope that some way can be found to reconcile the irreconcilable, to discover a bridge over the chasm of divergent thought.

We cannot desert God for peace and that is what we are asked to do. How can there be peace without morality and how can there be morality without God?

Professor Ilin, as a Marxist, accepts a materialistic interpretation of man and society and therefore for him no problems of morality present themselves. His ideas of life are determined only by the pressures of necessity.

To understand the treatment of prisoners of war in Korea, it is essential to realize that religion and morality are one and that those who reject God can brutalize themselves so that the commission of an atrocity involves no greater resistance to conscience than the extermination of bedbugs.

In recent years, such atrocities have only been committed by the Nazis and the Communists, the two godless powers in European life. The Nazis destroyed human life scientifically; the Communists do not bother about the method so long as the end, which is the removal of the impediments to their progress, is attained. When prisoners of war are in the way, if their maintenance is costly, if they require care and treatment—liquidate them!

War is an ugly business at best; at worst it is bestial. Never-failures of strategy of other men's devising. The Geneva Convention stands as a monumental record of a moral way of life. The first international effort in this direction was a convention signed in Geneva, Switzerland, in 1864 for the amelioration of the condition of the wounded and sick of armies of the field. This meeting was the result of the appeal to the conscience of the world by Jean Henry Dunant in whose honor the flag of his country, Switzerland, was adopted as the symbol of mercy. This is called the Red Cross and societies bearing that name were organized in most civilized countries. In 1867, these societies were banded together internationally. The American society was organized in 1881 by Clara Barton.

The Geneva Conventions lay down the rules for the housing, feeding, medical attention and rights of prisoners of war. The International Red Cross has been given the authority to inspect prisoner-of-war camps to see to it that they conform with the Conventions. Soviet Russia, Communist China and North Korea do not recognize the Geneva Conventions; they do not permit inspection by the International Red Cross. Therefore, they are not governed by any rules of conduct based on morality, but apply their own systems based upon nothing but their own necessities.

Their abuse of prisoners of war, as witnessed daily in the so-called talks at Panmunjom, is an example of what can occur if there are no rules. This we have to learn to anticipate from such peoples; those who expect anything better are likely to be disappointed.

The Supreme Court has ruled that baseball is a sport and not a business monopoly. We'd say it's both—a sport in which the New York Yankees seem to have a pennant monopoly.

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

With the visit of King Paul of Greece and his charming little Queen Frederika to our shores, I think we missed a wonderful opportunity to impress them.

Naturally, this being a Democracy the royal visitors must have thought we have no queens and kings here in our country. How mistaken they are!

We have kings and queens galore. And—leaving the kings out of the discussion entirely—I must say that our queens certainly have it all over some of the European ones I have seen.

The Queen of Greece is quite a comely number, I admit. But did she, like our Atlantic City and Long Beach queens, show herself in an abbreviated bathing suit? What do we know about her legs, her waist measurements, her hips, etc.?

Some of OUR queens may not be able to vie with the European or African or Asiatic queens in mental measurements. But in corporal terms I really think there is no comparison.

So I wish they could have brought the Cranberry Queen, the Queen of the Mardi Gras, Cotton Queen, the Bologna Queen and all the other "Queens," and the no less queenly creatures who sport the most modest titles as "Miss Fruitcuck," "Miss Erococci," "Miss Insecticide of 1953," to meet Queen Frederika and show her that we, too, have royal blood among us.

By the way, a Czechoslovakian beauty queen now in the United States has just told us about how the "queens" in her country are chosen.

She does not want her name mentioned because she needs her head in her business, and the Communists have a strange custom of cutting off your head if you talk too much.

The Reds don't choose their queens with a measuring tape or on eye-appeal.

To be a queen in a Communist country you must have distributed so many propaganda pamphlets or attended so many meetings. You must have established a certain quota in your factory or you must have laid more bricks in one day than any of your competitors.

That's what counts in Czechoslovakia and other Satellite and Red countries.

This girl knows, because she was a queen herself. I am not sure about it, but I think that the main prize when you are chosen Miss Czechoslovakia or Miss Bielo Russia over there, is a passport entitling you to leave the country. So you can imagine how popular these contests must be.

Now to an entirely different subject, which I mention only because we are on the subject of women, a subject to which all men come sooner or later.

It concerns fashions. Elizabeth Taylor, film star, bought herself a gayly colored Capri jacket while vacationing on the island of Capri.

She didn't know how the thing was worn, so she turned it inside out and more it thataway.

The next day every woman on the island, figuring that this must be a new style, wore HER jacket inside out.

So, ladies, don't be surprised if in a few weeks every woman in America will be wearing the short Dior skirt and a Capri jacket inside out.

But about that you'd better see your dressmaker. After all I'm no fashion expert.

My New York

—by Mel Heimer

New York — Things one New Yorker thinks about:

As pointed out the other afternoon, I am not full of the old school spirit about New York university, once graced by my bearded presence, but it does have its points. It has, for example, a "Center for Safety Education," which just has done the nation a service by making public the results of a survey that shows women drivers break speed laws more than men. Personally, I felt such an announcement was overdue. I'm getting awfully tired of reading these alleged eye-raising articles claiming that you wouldn't think it, but women are better drivers than men and facts show it.

My belief is that women and autos are completely foreign to one another, like oil and water. Some women comply with the law in the operation of cars but they do so under violent emotional pressure; their natural reaction in almost all crises is exactly opposite to what the builder had in mind. Thus, I feel that a man designs a car with the brake thus and so—just where a man would reach for it, to stop his progress. A woman, I am convinced, would instinctively reach in an opposite direction.

This could be carried to the logical conclusion, which is that men and women obviously are from different races and are not related at all, having nothing basically in common. However, deep thinking is not for this corner. Having disposed of woman motorists, however, I can start on New Jersey drivers, if asked.

Our Mayor, Mr. Impelleri, who shortly may be a private citizen, recently rubbed me the wrong way, if nobody else, when he appeared on TV with his wife, in a pitch (unsuccessful) to get the Democratic mayoralty nomination again, and referred to Mrs. I as "the little girl to whom I have been married for 27 years." Am I being picaresque, or does anyone agree that middle-aged women should not be called little girls—and should not go around referring to their women friends as "the girls" either? . . . I always figured that symphonic musicians must do something else for a living, something honest, and now I hear that Mario and William Polsi, who play double bass and second bassoon in the New York Philharmonic, have produced a new sweet, giant-sized tomato.

Are you curious about what happens to a girl who gets her name in the papers? A TV actress named Lisa Rivette picked up some publicity lately when her hotel manager ordered her to get rid of her three-months-old dog, and she threatened suit. "I got at least 75 phone calls and 35 letters," she says, "and one man even sent me a paper showing the proper way of arranging a dog burial. Another man wrote from the Tombs (a local clink), saying he would like to enter into a correspondence with me, as a pen pal." And since Miss Rivette is pretty and red-haired and her photo appeared with the news story, much of the mail comprised offers of dates, proposals of marriage and "all types of things," says Miss R., being delicate about the whole affair.

I had lunch the other day with Paul Winchell, the TV ventriloquist-actor, and he destroyed an old, cherished belief of mine—that if I ever got into a fight with an actor, there at least was a fight I would win. Paul, who fools around with weight-lifting in his Larchmont, N. Y., home, insisted I lift his muscle. I did, and an illusion was shattered. I admit, I broke a hand trying to encase Paul's bicep. Oddly enough, Paul was a polo victim as a child. I think three out of every four former polo victims I've met have been monumental physical specimens.

Remember the days when people went secretly, furtively, to psychiatrists for treatment? I caught up recently with Mary (Stutterin' Sam) Dowell, the one-time showgirl who has become a writer (Danger already has used one of her TV scripts)—and she told me, almost proudly, that she decided to go literary on the advice of her head doctor. Still an occasional stutterer, the beautiful Sam used to write out her memories and thoughts for the doc—who, one day, said, "Hey, this is good. Why don't you write for money?"

I'll give that doc a piece of my mind. This racket is overcrowded already.

Factographs

The expression "not worth a rap" is from the time in Ireland when counterfeit halfpence, commonly known as "raps," were in use.

The words "johnny cake" originated in the days when a traveler carried a piece of "journey cake" with him. From this, we get the phrase "Johnny cake."

The phrase "white elephant" comes from the method of ancient Indian princes who gave a sacred white elephant to those they wanted to ruin. The person could not refuse the gift and had to keep it in such splendor that it eventually ruined him.

Two Hunters Pay $430 On Game Counts

Two Mount Bethel men paid a total $430 for game law violations yesterday after hearings in East Stroudsburg.

Edgar Eyer, 52, and Harvey Houser, 25, were each involved in two separate violations, Game Protector John Doebeling said.

The two were arrested and charged Monday night with jack-lighting deer in Middle Smithfield Township near the former Girard College Camp.

Questioning revealed that the pair had not killed any deer, but brought out further admissions that the two had taken a deer Oct. 4 near Marshalls Creek and still had the meat stored at the Houser home.

Game protectors and deputies recovered some 30 pounds of meat from Houser's residence. Houser said he "couldn't enjoy eating the meat because I kept expecting a knock on the door."

The men were taken before Justice of the Peace Herbert G. Bonser and charged with illegally attempting to kill deer by the use of lights, and with illegal possession of meat from a deer taken in closed season.

Each man was fined $100 on each charge, and a total $15 cost each. Assisting in the prosecution were Deputy Game Protectors Frank Smith of Marshalls Creek, Elwood Walter of Shawnee, and Paul D. Shaffer of East Stroudsburg.

Surgeon Gives Viewpoint On Cancer Fight

Community commanders of the Monroe County Chapter of American Cancer Society met yesterday afternoon in Stroud Community House.

Dr. Claus Jordan, principal speaker gave the group a "surgeon's viewpoint on cancer."

Dr. Jordan told the workers that medical science today is having "more success in cancer operations" due to advanced operative techniques and the discovery of new anti-biotics.

Most important feature in combating cancer, Dr. Jordan said, is the early diagnosis of the disease in the patient.

Mrs. J. Stewart Williams, Harrisburg representative of the American Cancer Society spoke on the many services the society provides for those who are stricken by the disease.

Mrs. Frederick Trumpbour, captain of the Monroe County unit, urged commanders to let residents of their townships know about the dressings the local unit makes available to all those suffering from cancer.

Fire Company Answers Call

A chimney fire resulted in an alarm at the residence of Dr. J. L. Rumsey, 401 Main St., Stroudsburg, at 2:15 p. m. yesterday.

There was no damage. An oil burner serviceman was working on the furnace and noticed that soot in the chimney had caught fire.

He went upstairs, asked William H. Clark for assistance, Clark himself a volunteer, determined that the serviceman's ladder was too short to allow him to reach the top of the chimney.

An alarm was telephoned, and the fire company made the run. Dry chemical powder was thrown down the chimney to extinguish the blaze.

School Club Campaigning To Obtain Ambulance For Use In Barrett Township

Barrett—A project launched recently by students of the Health and Safety Club of the township school gained momentum here this week when clubs and organizations were given a demonstration of ambulances which township residents may buy if public demand is created by the pupils' initiative.

The school group, comprising 45 members and headed by Joseph Murray, faculty adviser, began the movement after taking count of accidents and traffic in the township. The need for such an ambulance service is great, students opine, and so they are taking their appeal to their parents and other adults.

Evans-Blitz Post, American Legion already has applauded the program by naming Bill Everett and Earl Rose as a committee to study purchase of an ambulance. The students' goal is to have every township organization name two representatives to form the nucleus of a committee which would head a fund-raising drive, and eventually administer the ambulance service business.

Last night local volunteer firemen saw one of two ambulances shipped here. This one, a 1948-model Cadillac, has a two-bed arrangement with capacity for four persons. Its cost is $3,300. Earlier in the week a 1953-model Cadillac was on display. This four-passenger vehicle holds a price tag of $3,700.

This morning the 1948 ambulance will be displayed and demonstrated at Buck Hill Falls Inn; tonight at the Parent Teachers Association meeting; Friday night at the Woman's Club card party; next Wednesday at the Rotary Club meeting where students will take part in the program; Wednesday also at the Lions Club meeting; Thursday, Nov. 26 for the P.O.S. of A. and Dec. 2 for the Junior Woman's Club.

In the meantime the ambulance is being driven each morning to the school by Murray, parked outside where the public is invited to view its facilities.

Organizers of the program, the school club was formed five years ago when Murray began teaching here. Present officers are Vivian Price, president; Effie Rider, vice president, and Stella Mazurik, secretary-treasurer.

PP&L Starts Work On New Substation

Half Million Dollar Project Launched Here

Pennsylvania Power & Light Co. has announced the start of a half-million dollar project of importance to residential, farm, commercial and industrial users of electric service in Stroudsburg and surrounding areas.

According to J. C. Knowles, the utility's Lehigh division vice president, a new high capacity substation is being built adjacent to the company's present substation in Stroudsburg and a 16-mile, 66,000-volt transmission line will be constructed from the Martins Creek power plant now under construction to the new facilities.

Crossing farmlands and rugged mountains, the high voltage transmission line will be of modern "IT" design, built to withstand the severe weather conditions of the area. The equipment is designed for heavy ice formation and its power carrying conductors will be protected from lightning by two wires attached at the top of the structures which intercept and drain the lightning into the ground through buried ground wires.

The new substation, which will distribute this power, will include transformers to convert power from 66,000 volts to 12,000 volts. It will have the latest type of switching equipment and other modern devices to further protect the equipment and service. The utility contemplates extensive rearrangement of existing equipment at this location to fit it into the new set-up.

Initially, power will be delivered over these new high capacity facilities by connection, at the Martins Creek site, to a high voltage line recently built to that plant from the company's transmission network. Upon completion of the Martins Creek plant, scheduled for next year, the newly established connection to Stroudsburg will receive its supply normally from that source.

These new facilities, Knowles pointed out, are only a part of PP&L's over-all plan to provide adequate, dependable electric service throughout the Central Eastern Pennsylvania area. The huge construction program being carried on by the utility company also bolsters the economy of the company's area through the continuing use of thousands of workers and millions of dollars of equipment supplied from the area whenever possible.

Mrs. Jesse Flory presided at the meeting when reports were given of the recent state advisory board meeting in Harrisburg with a local member, Mrs. Frank L. Patterson Jr., presiding. The slides taken of local Children's Aid activities attracted much favorable comment, Mrs. Flory reported.

The slides have been shown to an average of two local groups a week since the last board meeting, Mrs. Albert noted.

The annual audit, prepared by Herbert Crane, CPA, was accepted and the board expressed its appreciation for Mr. Crane's services to the society over the years.

Friends Of Late Thomas Alston Contribute Memorial Gift To County Cancer Society

No one was quite prepared for the news "Uncle Tom" got during the Fall of 1950. Except, perhaps, Tom himself.

The fact that he had cancer—so often described as an "incurable disease"—had little effect on Tom's life.

After constant urging from the management of the Inn, the aging man finally consented to stop working or—if he felt it necessary for his peace of mind to come down to the hotel—to spend his failing energies in directing other ballmen and employees.

During the two years of his illness, Tom Alston devoted most of his time practicing his favorite avocation—helping other people.

Toward the end of his sickness, he was hospitalized. As Miss Higgins remembers those days, the 70-year-old man spent most of his time thinking of the needs of others.

It was during the brief period before his death, Miss Higgins says, that Mr. Alston began to tell his friends "not to send flowers."

When Tom died this Spring there were no vacant places in the church in which his funeral service was held. Three clergymen, representing different faiths, were present to speak as part of the service.

It was following the service that the move to take donations to the Cancer Society fund really began.

Mrs. Taylor began talking about the collection to friends of the dead man. Within a period of months the fund had grown to a point where Mrs. Taylor and Miss Higgins felt it should be turned over to the local society office.

A "memorial fund book" honoring Thomas Alston is now on file at the Cancer Society office at 615 Sarah St., Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Mason and Mrs. Trumpbour met yesterday afternoon to formally mark the donation of $50 for use by the Society in its work with Monroe county cancer victims.

In more ways than one Tom Alston's philosophy lived on after him. As his material testament, "Uncle Tom" left all his income to an ill cousin. The cousin also had cancer.

Another testament of his will and kindness was present in the General Hospital room this week.

Thomas Alston was one of those few men who effect changes in the lives of those around them.

Nothing could stop the spirit of a man whose every action testified to the dignity of man. And that included Death.

Union Heads To Talk With Y Directors

Bausbaum is international organizer. He is being brought to the area through the efforts of local organizer Ralph Paul, Stroudsburg.

This will be the second meeting sponsored by Y directors in an effort to have work resumed on the Y building. Up to last night, it was reported, there were no plans for representatives of the electricians' union to attend the meeting.

Dogs Needn't Cause Trouble For Owners

By David G. Bareuther

How to build a dog house seems to be a far cry from the problems usually pursued in this department. But it isn't. It's just the latest howl. A reader wants to know how to plan a dog house. Maybe she assumes we must have had experience inside such a structure.

Well, we don't happen to have any doghouse plans with two bathrooms and expansion attics on our desk at the moment. But since dogs are a problem to householders everywhere and since the construction of a good dog house might set an example for much modern construction, let's take a look at the dog problem.

If you don't think this involves a bone of contention, you must live in the best of regulated neighborhoods. Harry Henderson, writing about big suburban developments in Harper's magazine, observes that one detail the super-planners overlook in new home communities is dogs—dogs brought from apartments by young home buyers, who turn the pooches loose to roam through neighbors' yards.

"The result," says Henderson, "is that the dogs form great packs which race through the area, knocking down small boys and girls, and wrecking gardens and flower beds." When they are tied up they howl and bark. When they are locked up in the house, they charge out to bite mail carriers and delivery men. In one community 13 mail carriers were bitten in one summer.

Now this is no criticism of the best friend a reporter ever had. In fact, we love dogs just as much as (and when) they love us. While raking up some rubbish in the fall, we found that neighbor Harry O'M's handsome and lanky Irish setter pup was a wonderful diversion—a perfect time-killer, barking at each reach of the rake and running after every stick, we'd throw—until we took off a good pigskin glove to light a match to the rubbish pile and the pup ran off with the glove.

Well, we didn't complain to Harry O'M, but meeting J.D. of Ito-ho-kus, N. J., (which is many miles away), we unbundled.

"You know, John," we said, "we can't keep on buying five-dollar gloves for a pup to hide in the woods."

"Try buckshot," John said. But that wasn't the answer. Who would want to hurt a handsome animal like Harry's setter pup? Besides, our village has rules against guns. "You don't want a gun," John replied. "Get a sling shot. All suburbanites use sling shots. You can make one. It's a good do-it-yourself project. Of buy one. They're advertised in the papers. They don't hurt the dogs. Just sting 'em and they won't come back."

Well, no dog in this David's neighborhood is named Goliath, so we haven't tried John's sling shot idea. But to see the holes made in our newly sown lawn you'd think that all dogs were giants of horse size.

And it made us feel sad the other day when neighbor Harry said he'd given his setter away—too many complaints from people.

So we decided that if we ever had a dog again, the way we'd plan a dog house would be to keep a nice soft rug in front of the fireplace and cut a swinging panel in the bottom of the front door so Rover could run in and out to his heart's content—in, to get away from the neighbors, and out, to remind them that the best part of living in a house is—living.

Hanging Door

When a door is being hung, the thickness of a five-cent piece should be left between the edges of the door and its frame. This will prevent the door from binding at the hinge edge and sticking at the other edges.

Bathroom Fan

For most rapid removal of moisture as it forms, a bathroom exhaust fan should be installed high on an outside wall above the tub or shower, if possible.

The Manhattan pier of the Brooklyn Bridge in New York City covers the site of America's first White House.

THE BRIGHTON has a long but narrow floor plan that gives the house a larger appearance than actually exists. There are two bedrooms, bath, kitchen and combination living-dining room, with full basement. There is excellent circulation between rooms, all can be reached from the front hall without passing through any other room.

Kitchen cabinets are on opposite walls with refrigerator and sink on outside wall and sink under windows. Living-dining room is L-shaped with cross-light. Living room has large picture window unit in front and fireplace on end wall.

Bedrooms have wardrobe type closets. Entrances have coat closets and linen closet.

Exterior has asphalt shingle roof and wide siding wall finish with a recessed entrance.

Dimensions are 40 feet by 24. Area is 915 square feet, colage 17.842. For further information about THE BRIGHTON, write The Small House Planning Bureau of Canada, Box 1193, St. John's New Brunswick.

Room Should Grow With Youngster

One of the most perplexing problems to parents is how to periodically change the decor of a child's room as he grows from one stage to another without involving too much expense. It's common wall among parents that "just as soon as I get the nursery finished, he's outgrown it, and I no longer get it redecorated than he's a teen ager and thinks his new room is "juvenile."

The solution is to plan a room that will grow from the toddler to teenage size with as few major changes as possible. By planning from the beginning, this can be accomplished with a few additions as the child grows older—thus saving the expense and trouble of complete redecorating jobs.

Medicine Cabinet Locked For Safety

A locked medicine cabinet or a locked compartment in a cabinet will keep poisons and dangerous drugs out of the reach of children. Keep light switches beyond the reach of anyone in the bathtub or standing at the washstand.

Never allow a portable plug-in radio in a bathroom where it may fall into the bathtub and electrocute a bather.

Neglect Expensive

Roof leaks are costly. Once a roof begins to crack, bulge, blister, rot or rust, it's the greatest wisdom to have it carefully checked. For the good of your pocketbook, the stitch-in-time technique is advisable. The renewal of protective coatings is especially important at this time of year when there is stormy weather ahead.

Usefulness Of Closet Increased

While hall closets are provided in practically all modern homes, many of them are sadly lacking in the matter of convenience.

In fact, few home owners realize that the usefulness of such a closet may be greatly increased by the addition of simple and comparatively inexpensive equipment.

For example, a rack with a metal-lined trough at the bottom may be attached to the inside of the closet door, and here the family's stock of umbrellas may be stored without sacrificing valuable floor space.

A metal-lined, well-ventilated chest for overcoats and rubbers may also be built in the closet.

In a household where there are several children, a mitten or glove box is another convenience. Like the rubber chest, this should be well-ventilated and divided into compartments, each labeled with the name of the owner.

Divide Clumps Of Hardy Ferns

Late fall or early winter is a good time to divide hardy ferns that have grown into clumps larger than needed for a good effect. Take them up and cut into several large pieces, retaining a good crown on each, and replant promptly without disturbing the rootball and the earth adhering to it. Follow with a good watering and add a little heap of straw or mulch hay to provide the winter shelter that under other conditions is provided by the dead fronds.

Leaking Faucets

Many faucets and valves leak because the seat is so rough that the washer will not fit tightly in place. The seats can be ground down with a valve and faucet seat-grinding tool but the job can also be done with a piece of wood dowel with a piece of emery cloth cemented to one end of it.

Painting Doors

It is best to lay doors flat while painting them; otherwise the paint will "stay put" in the corners where moldings join. It is also easier to work on a horizontal plane surface.

RECLAIM OLD PAINT BRUSHES

Don't discard paint-hardened brushes. Let Imperial go to work on them. No fast—Imperial is ready to use. Simply place the brush in it and the toughest paint dissolves quickly. Leaves brushes with original spring and liveliness.

Smaller Homes Win Favor Of Modern U.S. Families

America's shrinking households are making grandfather's mansion as obsolete as his moustache cup or high-wheeled bicycle. Today's household, averaging only 3.39 members, according to Bureau of the Census surveys, needs a much smaller dwelling than grandfather's did in 1890 when 4.93 persons made up the average household.

The one-story, two-bedroom house which can be taken care of without extra help has, as a result, become America's favorite type of home, says a report. Automatic equipment, easily cleaned materials such as tile for kitchens and baths, and combination dining-living rooms have reduced the homemaker's work and eliminated the "hired girl" of grandma's day.

Today's home-building families favor an open plan, so that each room of the house can be used for a variety of activities. They turn thumbs down on the all-white bathroom of grandfather's day, and favor both plumbing fixtures and tile for bath floors and walls in pastel shades. They like storage walls and built-in furniture, which gives added floor space.

Grandpa's big family centered its life around the fireplace; the modern family favors the television set. Grandpa's mansion was often poorly heated. Today's house, by contrast, has radiant heating.

Check Plant Labels In Fall

Serious gardeners usually are interested in having each plant correctly labeled so that they may refresh their memory as to the name, perhaps even the planting date. Late fall or early winter is a good time to check on the condition of the labels and their legibility.

Another important point to watch is the condition of the wire where such is used in connection with shrubs and trees. That wire always should be loose with ample room to provide for expansion of the branch or limb.

Three Groups Net $3,600 At Carnival

Gilbert—Blue Ridge Hook & Ladder Fire Co., Saylorsburg; West End Fire Co., Brodheadsville; and West End Lions Club netted $3,600 in profits from their annual joint carnival held in August at the West End Fair grounds here.

One of the most successful ventures of this kind, the carnival attracted stout support from West End citizens and visitors. Out of many things learned in the 1953 event will come expanded and improved plans for next year's benefit exhibition.

Each of the three participating organizations received net profits of $1,200 each.

West End Lions voted to allocate $250 each to Blue Ridge and West End Fire Companies and to the Kunkletown Volunteer Fire Co., a total of $750.

Mel Weiss, Brodheadsville was general chairman of the joint carnival committee. He was assisted by many members of all three organizations and these other committee officers:

John Gower, Blue Ridge; Floyd Altomose, West End firemen, vice chairman; John Wernett, Saylorsburg, secretary and Carl E. Kresge, treasurer.

Over-all committee has already met for a review of the 1953 carnival. During that meeting machinery was set up for the 1954 show.

'Your Health'

From The Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania and the Monroe County Medical Society

The average expectancy of life in the United States has almost doubled since the time of the Revolutionary War.

Whereas the life expectancy 170 years ago was 35 years, today it is better than 68 years.

In 1870, only 3 per cent of the population of the United States were 65 years of age or more; in 1950 the figure was 8 per cent.

This lengthening in the age composition of society poses problems, not the least of which has to do with health.

The interest of the medical profession in health aspects is shown by the expanding work of organizations devoted to geriatrics and gerontology—old age problems.

All old people are not aged, nor dying.

There can be more to the last third of life than suffering chronic diseases and the prospect of approaching death.

A person over 60, if in reasonably good health has a surprising number of years left to him.

The person of 65 can expect almost 13½ more years of life, those 70 10½ more years, those 80 better than 6 more years.

Even the centenarian can, on his 100th birthday, expect more than two years of life.

The health problems of the aged concerning the medical profession are acute infections, pharmacotherapy, surgery and chronic diseases.

It is to be remembered that there are no diseases of old age—only diseases in old people.

The medical profession is striving to make the autumn years of life healthier for the rapidly increasing number of those living longer than people used to live.

Patskin Ruled Sane, Must Die For Murder Of Wife

Philadelphia, (AP)—William Patskin, convicted Lackawanna County slayer, has been properly ruled sane and must face the death sentence, the State Supreme Court held yesterday.

In an opinion by Justice John C. Bell, the court denied a claim by Patskin's attorneys that the Lackawanna County court erred in rejecting a medical commission report that Patskin is insane and should be confined to a mental hospital.

There was "ample justification for the findings and conclusions of the lower court," the Supreme Court ruled. "We find no abuse of discretion or error of law."

The Lackawanna County court en banc, with President Judge T. Linus Hoban dissenting, had ruled last April that Patskin is legally sane, and that his delusions, as reported by the examining board were "faked and concocted to escape just prosecution."

Patskin was convicted in May, 1951, of murdering his wife on a rural highway the year before. He claimed that she was slain by hitchhikers whom he had picked up during an auto ride with his wife.

Following the conviction of Patskin and imposition of the death sentence, his attorneys appealed to the Lackawanna County court for appointment of a sanity commission, which later reported that he

83-Year-Old Cresco Man Agrees Daily Record Brings World Right To His Doorstep

By James B. Gaffney

When he was approached for an interview, 83-year-old Harry E. Heller wanted to know the approximate time a reporter from The Daily Record would be at his Cresco home "because I may be out plowing."

It was 1:30 yesterday afternoon when the reporter reached the residence but the subject wasn't in the field—he was propped up very neatly in an arm chair and ready with the answers.

Les Carlton, Record photographer, recalled Mr. Heller from his boyhood days in South Sterling and so the two "youngsters" had some name swapping and a multitude of incidents to cover.

The assignment came after it was learned Mr. Heller read The Record and preceding newspapers of this county at least 65 years and was a correspondent for his area years ago. "Here 83 years, no glasses" was the notation which prompted the trip into Barrett Township.

The trek actually started in the newspaper's circulation department when Ken Strunk, manager, signed one of the renewal requests in which he pointed out that receiving The Daily Record daily "is like having the whole wide world brought to your doorstep."

And Mr. Heller agreed with Strunk implicitly, and told the reporter the same thing yesterday: "It's such a small cost for so much entertainment."

Sneaking in the conversation between Mr. Heller and Mr. Carlton, the reporter managed to learn the octogenarian is a native-born Crescoan; father of Raymond in Springfield, N. J., and Mrs. Ruth Arnt, with whom he resides; the grandfather of three children, and great grandfather of two tots.

It was rather difficult to interrupt two men who seemed to have much in common—mostly the POS of A and old acquaintances, until Mr. Heller came up with the answer. Recently he began jotting down notes on his life, just for something to do, and afterward the papers were placed in order. Yesterday, he handed them to the reporter for inspection and continued his buddy-buddy talk with Les.

"Harry E. Heller is no college graduate," the papers started. "He received a common school education in a one-room school building at Mountainhome."

The writing was clearly legible and every line in order. The "life" mentioned a Dr. J. W. Silvara as a teacher in that one-room school and how Mr. Heller was called upon sometimes to conduct classes when the doctor went out on calls. "Probably because he was larger than the others, hence good order," was the way Mr. Heller described his limited instructor duties.

The life-history told how Dr. Silvara came to school as the term began "with a rawhide that must

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Stroudsburg's Rotary Club is to be complimented today for its plan to entertain members and coaches of both the Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg High School football teams. Both clubs have had fine seasons and deserve the praise and support of every person in the respective communities. I hope to see the day in which a banquet and dance will be connected directly with the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg football game on Thanksgiving Day. This would be a worthy project for one or more clubs or organizations in the area.

An affair of this type would greatly benefit the youth of our area in addition to furthering sports in the two rival boroughs. If one or more social affairs would be connected with the annual football contest, it would limit rivalry only to the gridiron and basketball court. I hope in the future that basketball and baseball teams will also be honored by a service club, but not necessarily by the Rotary Club. It's asking too much for one club to honor all athletic teams in the two boroughs.

Ben Everitt, former resident of Stroudsburg and now living in Easton, was one of the substitute officials at the recent Lafayette-Rutgers football game to draw praise from Asa Bushnell, commissioner of the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference. The quartet of area officials were pressed into service when officials from the western portion of Pennsylvania were unable to make the trip to Easton because of the snow storm. The quartet of local play callers included John McIntyre, Frank Beechler, Al Misero in addition to Everitt. All were reportedly promised additional college games in the future.

In this scribble's opinion the best official to work any football games involving Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg High schools this season was Jack Bessemer, referee in the Stroudsburg-Statington encounter last Monday. Bessemer was particularly considerate of the players, leaving rival captains call the play on at least two close first down decisions, thus taking all doubt out of the situation. Bessemer probably takes the feelings of players into consideration more than most officials, as was proven when he didn't eject a Statington player from the game in the late stages of the final period, as the youngster lost his head for a moment.

The movie projector given to the East Stroudsburg High athletic department by last year's senior class is one of the best this reporter has ever seen. The projector can be stopped and reversed, enabling the viewer to examine plays very closely. It was in this manner that the Cavaliers were able to carefully check last Saturday's questionable play at Nazareth. A total of 106 people attended the recent basketball rules interpretation meeting at Nazareth, while 85 were present at a similar meeting in Wilkes-Barre. Local officials attended both gatherings.

Dr. Frank P. Maguire, commissioner of Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association officials and a well known resident of East Stroudsburg, served as chairman of the first state-wide wrestling rules interpretation meeting recently. The gathering was held at State College. Dick Campagna was the unsung hero for Stroudsburg against Northampton last Saturday. The big tackle played one of his best games of the current campaign. According to films of the Nazareth-East Stroudsburg grid clash, Roger "Red" Hartmann, Eastburg tackle, also came up with a fine contest.

Stroudsburg's school board is to be complimented for its action in giving the football Mountaineers an informal banquet last night. It was decided to give the dinner last week, regardless of how the Stroudsburg team did against the Konkret Kids, and the board graciously followed through with its promise. Grand Theater and Stroudsburg A. A. local entries in the Blue Mountain Basketball League, have their rosters complete and are ready to open the long campaign starting a week from next Monday. Stroudsburg's grid machine returns to the practice field today, while Eastburg opened its drills yesterday.

The cage Mountaineers have two pre-season practice sessions scheduled against Wilson Borough, one on each court. Joe Whalen, sports-caster for radio station WVPO, is scheduled to vacation in California around the first of next year. Jack Mullins is in the athletic business the year round now. The Monroe County Football League president is now business manager of the Stroudsburg A. A. basketball organization. Harry Schaeffer, pitcher with Kansas City, of the American Association and once the property of the Stroudsburg Poconos, may visit in the area this weekend.

There was an empty feeling at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College on Monday, when it was learned that none of the six girls in the Philadelphia Sectional Field Hockey Tournament was named to a team competing in the National Tournament. Followers of Normal Hill field hockey thought at least one of the girls would make the grade.

Teams, Individuals Honored At Baseball Banquet

Large Crowd At Mountain League Affair

Saylorsburg—A successful finish to the 1953 Pocono Mountains Baseball League season was written here at the Lake House last night, as approximately 175 people attended the annual circuit banquet.

Teams and players were honored for outstanding feats during the campaign just completed and the entire gathering was treated to a turkey dinner.

Walter Stem, umpire-in-chief, served as toastmaster and introduced the various guests and trophy donors.

Lake Harmony took home the lion's share of the trophy loot, as the regular season pennant winner won two team honors and three of the individual variety.

The pennant winner won The Daily Record Trophy, presented by Jim Riley, Record sports editor and the newly devised rotating trophy presented each year by the league. The rotating trophy was presented by Clinton Getz, circuit president. The first team to win the giant rotating trophy three years will gain its permanent possession.

Two Awards

Jack Esrang, Lake Harmony manager, won two individual trophies. Esrang was awarded a trophy by Sheriff Jake Altomose for winning the batting title with a .351 average. Esrang also named the most popular manager and honored with a trophy presented by Henry F. Weiss. Mrs. Weiss made the presentation in the absence of her husband.

Esrang made a short speech thanking everyone for their kindness and expressing hope for another successful campaign next season.

AWARD—"Dutch" Snyder is pictured above receiving The Daily Record Trophy in behalf of Lake Harmony, the regular season title holder in the Pocono Mountains Baseball League. The remainder of the group, in a clockwise order, includes Jim Riley, sports editor of The Daily Record; Clinton Getz, league president; John Wernett, secretary, and Walter Stem, umpire-in-chief, who served as toastmaster at last night's banquet at the Lake House, Saylorsburg.

other successful campaign next season.

"Dutch" Snyder, veteran right-handed pitcher for Lake Harmony, was awarded the Lloyd Altomose Trophy for the top pitching record in the league. Altomose made the presentation.

Barrett received two team honors. The first, for finishing second in the regular season, was presented by Baum's Sporting Goods Co., and was given by Frank Thornton, company representative.

Playoff Champ

The Barrett club also received a trophy from Rep. John S. Shotwell, in recognition of its playoff championship. Rep. Shotwell made the award. Bob Hawk accepted both trophies in behalf of the Barrett club.

Harry Janson, first vice president of the league and a resident of Tannersville, was named the most deserving official in the circuit and received a large trophy donated by the Monroe County Republican Committee. The presentation was made by Harold Wiggins, East Stroudsburg.

Charles Neast, Carbon County treasurer, was the main speaker on the program. He spoke on the importance baseball plays in our lives and the manner in which outstanding players show alertness and intestinal fortitude.

Neast related major league experiences that supported his statements on baseball.

Guests introduced included Harry Warner, property of the Milwaukee Braves; Ray Steele, Philadelphia A's; Karl Weingartner, a representative of the Stroudsburg High football team; Harvey Hiller, former player with the Boston Red Sox and manager of Hazleton; Charley Sipple, Pittsburgh Pirates; and Tom Hughes, former pitcher with the Phillies and Cincinnati Reds.

Leonard Renaldo and "Ducky" DeFrank, members of the Blue Mountain Umpires Association also took bows.

Lake Harmony, Reeders, Kunkletown, Saylorsburg, Anasimink, Tannersville, Barrett, Pocono Lake and West End A.C. were the league teams represented at the affair.

Horse Racing Winding Up Record Year

New York, (AP)—Horse racing at the nation's thoroughbred running tracks has broken all records again in 1953, an unofficial Associated Press survey of the attendance, betting and revenue of the 25 racing states disclosed yesterday. Wagering went over the two billion dollar mark for the first time.

The season now drawing to a close was even better than the 1952 year, it itself a record season for the sport. Attendance was down slightly in seven states, but in five of them, the parimutuel turnover showed an increase.

Estimates

With estimates from several states where racing still is going on, the survey shows wagering is up 7.21 per cent over 1952, with attendance up 4.59 per cent, an increase in revenue to the states of 14.29 per cent.

Incomplete and unofficial figures show that wagering totalled $2,068,052,889, compared with $1,928,925,499 in 1952. Attendance this year soared to 28,329,182 compared with 27,086,748 last year.

The tracks will turn over in revenue to the states and municipalities a record of $136,069,370, compared with the old mark — $119,061,276 in 1952.

New York, the perennial leader in betting, showed a decline in both wagering and attendance, but the state revenue based on estimates after Jamaica closed Saturday is up some five million dollars. A legislative bill hiked the state's take from six to eight per cent last spring, with New York City getting three per cent and the tracks four per cent of the 15 per cent takeout.

This season, total betting in New York was $374,441,814, compared with $382,092,519 in 1952; attendance dropped from 4,543,577 to 4,498,324, but the state's share jumped from $25,528,849 to $31,100,950, the latter an estimate.

Poor weather on occasion, plus the proximity of New Jersey tracks got the blame. Attendance in New Jersey boomed from 2,447,319 to 2,679,548, while wagering increased from $228,533,639 to $260,786,625. There is only a 12 per cent takeout in New Jersey.

Still Running

California, with racing still going on at Bay Meadows, will have the biggest attendance of the states, an estimated 4,566,312, compared with 4,572,357 last year. California, second to New York in betting, will have an estimated parimutuel turnover of $335,083,619, compared with last year's $312,385,812.

There were slight decreases in attendance in Michigan, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Arizona, but wagering showed an increase. Colorado was down in both attendance and wagering. The Michigan racing commission believes the rise in wagering in spite of a slight fall-off in the gate is the result of improved economic conditions.

One More For Willie
San Mateo, Calif., (AP)—Willie Shoemaker, the nation's leading jockey, booted in Cornerstone in the feature race at Bay Meadows yesterday to push his world record of season victories to 44.

Pirates Expect To Take Part In Deals

Pittsburgh (AP)—Branch Rickey, general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, said yesterday he expects to do some trading before the 1954 baseball season gets under way.

But that's as far as Rickey would go. He said he has no idea which players he would trade but declared:

"I won't trade any of the boys unless it will improve our building program."

Trading Material

Rickey has previously said he considers only four members of the club trading material. He listed them as pitcher Murry Dickson, infielder Danny O'Connell and outfielders Frank Thomas and Hal Rice.

Rickey did say that most inquiries put to him about trades have concerned O'Connell, but he added:

"He is the one player I do not want to trade. He is the type around which we are building our future in Pittsburgh. And he won't be traded unless I feel we can get three or four players who are going to be of help in the future."

Martin Captures October Award

New York, (AP)—Billy Martin, the scrappy New York Yankee second baseman, yesterday was named winner of the October award in the Hickok pro athlete of the year poll for his outstanding play in the World Series.

Second

The clutch-hitting Yankee received 66 first place votes and 245 points on a 3-2-1 basis to win by 90 points over Willie Shoemaker, the record-breaking jockey. Shoemaker collected 20 first place ballots and 155 points.

Alston Denies Brooklyn Report

Oxford, Ohio, (AP)—Walter Alston knocked down reports last night he had been chosen as the new manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"It can't be authentic because I haven't heard anything about it," the manager of Montreal in the International League said.

Stroudsburg High's once beaten football team was honored with a turkey dinner at the W. Main St. school last night. The meal, sponsored by the Stroudsburg school board, was prepared by the Home Economics Department and served by members of the board.

Los Angeles, (AP)—The overall precautions may appear to be slightly exaggerated, but the tightest "security measures" in many a year surround preparations for a football game between UCLA and Southern California here Saturday.

Tatamy Plays Host To Diamond Fete

Tatamy—A near record crowd is expected to hear Russ Van Atta, former major league pitcher with the New York Yankees and St. Louis Browns, address the annual Blue Mountain Baseball League banquet tonight, here at the fire house.

Van Atta was procured as the guest speaker at a late moment when it was learned that Jim Honochick, American League umpire, would be unable to fill the engagement.

Awards

During the course of the program Tatamy will be honored with The Daily Record Trophy for winning the playoff title. Martins Creek will also receive a trophy as the regular season title holder. Armon Williams, secretary of the circuit, will serve as toastmaster.

Cincinnati Leads Nation In Rushing, Total Offense Lists

New York, (AP)—Step aside, Notre Dame, Maryland, Oklahoma and all you "big name" colleges, the Cincinnati Bearcats are rolling like the swanky sports cars that bore the same nickname 25 years ago.

In winning eight of nine games so far this season, the University of Cincinnati football team has covered enough yardage—nearly two miles of it, in fact—to lead every major team in the nation in total offense and in rushing.

The Bearcats, already ahead in total offense, increased their lead and took first place in rushing when they gained an amazing 608 yards in whipping Virginia Military Institute, 67-0, last Saturday.

Trail

Two other once-beaten teams, Texas Tech and Utah trail some distance behind Cincinnati in the total offense figures released yesterday by the NCAA Service Bureau. The only unbeaten teams on the major college list, Notre Dame and Maryland, are fourth and sixth, respectively.

An unusual sidelight revealed in the figure is that nine of the top 13 teams in the total offense have lost no more than one game each and eight of those nine also are among the first 12 in rushing and in scoring.

In passing, however, the less successful teams occupy the top brackets. Stanford (6-3), College of the Pacific (3-4-1) and Dartmouth (1-7) are the leading teams in the passing statistics.

East Stroudsburg

East Stroudsburg winners are Linda Nittel, 84 N. Courtland St., Edith Van Aiken, 75 S. Courtland St., Dale Metzgar, 145 Broad St., and Allen Smith, Borough St. Jerrold E. Fritz is the Saylorsburg winner.

George Samsel and Linda Nittel join the very select group of those who are repeat winners.

Record Major League In Action

Alleys five and six—Shoemaker's Signs vs. Scheller and Kitchen.

Statement

"Well, I happened to meet Dr. Byrd after the game and he said 'Last year, I said the team got the worst coaching in November, this year it's getting the greatest,'" replied Tatum.

Why didn't Dr. Byrd make that statement public as he did last year?

"Give him a chance, maybe he's waiting until after Saturday's game," suggested Coach Tatum.

Maryland plays Alabama Saturday.

Maryland Narrows Gap Behind Notre Dame In Battle For Number One Collegiate Grid Rating

By Hugh Fullerton Jr.

New York, (AP) — The race between Notre Dame and Maryland for the season's number one rating in college football becomes closer as the other teams eliminate themselves from contention. Those two teams, the only major powers still undefeated and untied this season, rounded up 135 of the 151 first place votes cast in the eighth weekly Associated Press ranking poll. And Maryland's position in the balloting continued to grow stronger as the Terrapins continued to win over increasingly strong opposition.

Notre Dame, an easy winner over North Carolina, remained on top of the list, where it has been all season, with 93 first place votes and a total of 1,404 points on the usual basis of 10 for first place, nine for second, etc. But Maryland, which made well-regarded Mississippi look like another soft touch, moved within 60 points of the lead with 42 firsts and 1,344 points.

This struggle may be resolved next Saturday when Notre Dame plays Iowa and Maryland encounters Alabama. By whipping Minnesota, the surprising Iowa team earned 20th place in the ratings. Alabama, a 13-6 winner over the Georgia Tech team that was rated fifth a week ago, just missed a spot in the first 20 this week.

Georgia Tech was one of three teams which lost their high rankings of last week. Tech slipped from 15th to 12th. West Virginia, its 13-game winning streak ended by a loss to South Carolina, fell from eighth to 19th and Baylor, ranked ninth before it took a 37-7 shellacking from Houston, didn't get placed in the first 20 this week.

Illinois, still a candidate for the Big Ten championship and the Rose Bowl bid, remained in the top 10 despite a 34-7 whipping from Wisconsin. From third place, the Illini went down to seventh. The old favorites which took their losses earlier than went back to winning, turned up in the higher places in the general reshuffling of the rankings. Michigan State, last year's national champion, moved back to third with an impressive 1,091 point total. Orange Bowl bound Oklahoma, clinching the Big Seven title, took over fourth with UCLA fifth.

Of these three, only UCLA appears to be in for trouble Saturday. The Uclans encounter ninth-ranked Southern California in one of the games which will decide the Pacific Coast Conference championship. Michigan State ends its season against Nebraska. Other top 10 pairings: Illinois-Northwestern, Wisconsin-Minnesota and Rice-Texas Christian, Texas is idle.

The second 10: 11. Alabama; 12. Georgia Tech; 13. Kentucky; 14. Auburn; 15. Duke; 16. Stanford; 17. Texas Tech; 18. South Carolina; 19. West Virginia; 20. Iowa.

Faloney Named Leading Back Of Week

New York, (AP) — Mississippi Coach Johnny Vaught says Bernie Faloney's first period pass interception halting a Rebel drive was the turning point in Maryland's 38-0 rout of the team considered its toughest opponent.

That's only one of the reasons given by the nominators for selecting Maryland's split T quarterback and co-captain as The Associated Press back of the week.

Faloney gave an exceptional exhibition of his all-around skill in leading the nation's number two team to its ninth straight victory. The six foot, 180 pound senior from East Carnegie, Pa., scored twice, recovered a fumble to set up a touchdown, passed, punted and made numerous tackles in the finest game of his successful season.

Challengers A pair of upset-makers, Wisconsin's Alan Ameche and South Carolina's Johnny Grambling, were Faloney's main challengers in nominations received for the back of the week honor.

Among the other nominees were quarterbacks Don King of Clemson, Vince Dooley of Auburn, Ray McKown of TCU and John Kirkpatrick of Texas Tech. Notre Dame's Neil Worden, Rice's Koss Johnston, William and Mary's Bill Bowman, Oklahoma A&M's Earl Lunsford and Maryland's Ralph Felton were fullback choices. Chet Hanulak of Maryland and Ken Stegall of Houston drew attention as halfbacks.

West Chester Teachers Sure Of Share In Grid Championship

Johnstown — For the fifth straight week West Chester and Shippensburg continue to share the lead in the Pennsylvania State Teachers Colleges Football Conference. The defending champions from West Chester assured themselves of a tie by eliminating Bloomsburg, 20-7, last weekend.

The title now rests on the outcome of the season's last game next Saturday at Bloomsburg where Lock Haven is the opponent. A Bloomsburg victory will give West Chester the championship; a Lock Haven win or a tie will leave the final standings deadlocked between West Chester and Shippensburg. The conference makes no provisions for championship play-off.

Middle Bracket Mansfield moved into the middle bracket in the rating system by taking winless Millersville, 26-7, and Lock Haven blanked Kutztown, 19-0, in the only other conference games last weekend.

Standings follow:

	W	L	T	Rating
Shippensburg	6	0	0	259
West Chester	4	0	0	259
Bloomsburg	4	1	0	260
Carlton	3	1	0	188

Gettysburg's Ace Moves Into Comfortable Lead In Scoring

Philadelphia, (AP) — Gettysburg's Joe Ujohai still holds a comfortable margin in the Pennsylvania college football scoring derby, the weekly Associated Press survey showed yesterday.

Ujohai scored 14 points, two touchdowns and a pair of extra points against Bucknell last Saturday to increase his total to 91—12 TDs and 19 conversions.

ESSTC Fourth In Soccer Standings

Johnstown — Slippery Rock and Lock Haven are co-champions of the five-team Pennsylvania State Teachers Colleges Soccer Conference. The co-champions played two overtime periods to a 2-2 deadlock and thus brought on the tie for the title won by the Rockets last year.

Two Wins Although Slippery Rock won two conference games, both against Indiana, whereas Lock Haven only won one game (against Indiana), the deadlock for the title occurs as only two games are necessary for championship consideration and all ties and losses must be counted.

	W	L	T	Rating
Slippery Rock	2	0	1	201
Lock Haven	1	0	1	201
West Chester	1	0	0	201
ESSTC	0	1	0	190
Indiana	0	3	0	190

Youth Center Sets Saturday For Tag Day In Boroughs; Goal Of $750 Announced

The Community Youth Center—serving teen-agers from Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg and other areas of Monroe County—will hold its annual "tag day" sale on Saturday in both boroughs.

A goal of $750 has been set for this year's sale, according to current President Charles Reid, East Stroudsburg.

"The money raised during the tag sale," Reid said, "will be put in a fund set up for the purpose of paying for the upkeep of the American Legion post home hall."

The Legion hall is rented by the center as a place in which to hold its weekly dances.

"This fund is controlled by the Exchange Club of East Stroudsburg which has guaranteed to back the center," Reid continued.

"The Youth Center is now beginning its third year of existence. It has developed into a self-sustaining organization in that it raises enough money through membership, concessions and the sale of tags, to pay its own expenses arising from normal operation," the president of the center pointed out.

"Some interested persons have asked us to give them the background on the annual tag day sale," Reid said. "There is a good reason for it, of course, just as there is an excellent reason for the center's continued operation."

"During the past two years we have found that, although sufficient funds come into the center to pay for nearly all regular operating costs—orchestras, food and other arrangements—the concessions and dues do not support the fund necessary for rent on the hall."

As Reid and other current directors of the center see it, there has been marked progress in the venture since its beginning.

"The Youth Center has gone through two complete years with no serious trouble. Throughout all this time, it has been under youth management with the constant aid and advice of parental groups, including not only American Legion directors and members but representatives from Parent-Teacher Association groups in both boroughs."

"It is the first youth-run activity in either Stroudsburg borough which serves both communities which has existed for such a length of time."

Reid and his fellow board members do not depict the Youth Center as a "miracle cure-all" for the troubles of adolescence. It does help, however, to lessen the possibilities of disturbance.

"As we see it," Reid declares, "the Youth Center gives the youth of both towns a place to congregate and enjoy themselves on Saturday nights."

The emphasis in the center is on cooperation and fair play for all sides.

Directors are selected equally from candidates presented by the two borough high schools (three from Stroudsburg; three from East Stroudsburg).

The current board consists of Reid, as president and the following officers and members: John Minick, vice president, (S); Bob Hinton, secretary (ES); Pat Bartholomew, treasurer (S); Judy Cramer (S) and Jeanne Quinlan (ES), board members.

The Girl Scout Troop of Portland under the leadership of Miss Ruth Williams held a doggie roast on Wednesday noon on the athletic field at the Portland school. Baseball was enjoyed after which the meeting was held in the social room of the Methodist church. Twenty-one girl scouts and their leader attended.

Mrs. Lawrence Randolph, Portland's Postmistress will celebrate her birthday anniversary on Thursday, November 19.

The annual meeting of the Monroe County Community Chest and Council is called to meet at the Stroud Community House, Main and Ninth Streets, Stroudsburg, Pa. November 22, 1953 at 8:00 P.M. for the election of officers and any other business.

Senior Class Play Slated Friday Night

Dramatics with a dash of poush will be the order of the night Friday when East Stroudsburg seniors present their class play in the junior high school auditorium.

Under direction of high school faculty member Gilbert Dunning, the seniors will enact the play "Seven Sisters" adapted from the Hungarian comedy by Gyorgy Herczeg by American author Edith Ellis.

According to Dunning, rehearsals for the play will reach completion tonight when students will appear for the first time in costume for their roles.

Tonight's rehearsal, at the junior high school auditorium, marks the end of long weeks of preparation for the play.

Due to its unique casting problems and the necessity for working out a complete costume plan, "Seven Sisters" is one of the most ambitious productions undertaken recently by the school.

Members of the cast are Betty Stiff as "Mrs. Gyurkovics," a widow; Ann Yetter as "Katinka"; Jere Slutter as "Sari"; Betsy Peeney as "Ella"; Suzanne Dimmick as "Mitzi"; Kathy Yost of "Terka"; Bonnie Bartholomew as "Liza"; Joyce Leap as "Klara"—the seven sisters referred to in the title.

Also taking important roles are Sheldon Bernbaum who appears as "Col. Radvanyi"; Sidney Heller as "Gilda"; Fred Mursch as "Ferenc"; Ray Fellman as "Michael"; Jere Viechnicki as "Toni Teleki"; Bernard Fish as "Janko."

Sylvia Younkin serves as prompter and assistant to the director.

"Seven Sisters" will be presented one night only on Friday at 8 p.m.

High School Library Adds 65 Volumes

Bangor Sixty-five new books have been added to the Bangor High School library collection in the last month it was reported yesterday.

Foremost of the additions is the six-volume set of Dictionary of American History, Miss Florence Giacquinto, school librarian, reported. She also listed the addition of another set of the Landmark books to the history section. Other books included many fiction, non-fiction and professional editions.

The Library Club of the high school met this week and inaugurated a project called the "Book-a-Week Group." All members have pledged to read one book a week for their own purposes.

This week the Library Club also heard travel talks by Robert LaBar, high school student, and Miss Giacquinto, club adviser. LaBar talked about his trip to the Boy Scout Jamboree in California and Miss Giacquinto related experiences of her tour of Mexico and Southwest-

East Stroudsburg Students To Tour Levittown Today

A group of East Stroudsburg High School students will tour an "American boom town, 1953 style" today.

The students, supervised by John Eckert, high school English instructor and faculty member Robert Burrows, will take a guided trip through "Levittown," a modern housing settlement built primarily for employees of the giant U. S. Steel plant nearby.

Originally intended as a field trip for students in the high school technical course, school officials found that interest ran high among students in other curriculum divisions.

School administrators decided, therefore, to allow students from all sections to go on the trip.

Slated to make the tour of Levittown today are the following students:

Chauncey Daily Jr., Harry Diehl, Claude Schaller, Richard Zukowski, Peggy Vogt, Beverly Allen, Beverly Bogart, Yondale Ace, Joe Bortlik.

Also Rob Schring, Gerald Miller, Paul Hoffman, Charles Garri, Jerry Wendt, Vilja Kreek, Lawrence Tewksbury, Judson Diehl, Bill Cook, Adrian Tewksbury.

Also Sterling Schoonover, Robert Smale, Howard Powell, Dick Feller, Fred Strunk and Barbara Ace.
